Welcome — Sue Lynch

Prayer — Patty Dickow

Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America — Patty Dickow

Introduction of Guest Speaker — Sue Lynch
Senator Ron Johnson

Senator Johnson began his speech by saying that people often tell him that they are praying for him. He is tired of the anger. We are concerned of the future. People often stop him and ask how we can save this country.

The left seems to loathe this country. They want to fundamentally destroy this country. The number one issue of the left is to divide and weaken this country.

As conservatives, we are awful at defending our values because whoever thought we would have to.

The right is amazed at the left's support of gender issues: biological men competing against our daughters; and injecting minors with gender altering drugs and at times without parental approval.

This is not a level playing field. It is not fun being on the other end of lies and personal character attacks. Our nation is in peril. This is not the same Democratic Party of years ago.

Many children do not appreciate what we have here in the US.

There is a true concern of military being trained in "wokeness," rather than preparedness.

WI is split down the middle with 47% hard left, and 47% hard right.

We do not live in an unbiased world. The media is horribly biased. It is not a fair fight. We need to be a moral and informed public and unify.

75-80% of Americans say we are on the wrong path. This shows that they are concerned about this country. This is a fight for freedom.

Senator Johnson took questions from the audience.

Introduction of Speaker
Eric Toney, Candidate for Attorney General — Sue Lynch

Eric Toney spoke of the Kenosha County riots and the lack of support from Tony Evers and the attorney general. Eric now has the support of The Kenosha County Police Department. He will not back down especially when his character is being personally attacked. He has prosecuted more against election fraud than any other attorney in the state.
